Continued Care

INITIAL EVALUATION DOES NOT ESTABLISH DUTY TO PROVIDE CONTINUED CARE

Participation by the patient and the provider in an initial evaluation does not establish a legal obligation to continue care.

After assessment, the provider will determine whether or not the patient and practice are a proper fit based on several factors some of which, but not all inclusive, are patient acuity, previous history and or medical complexity. If the practice determines the patient is a proper fit and the patient or caregiver is in agreement, a follow up appointment will be scheduled to establish formal care. If it is determined that the patient is not a proper fit for the practice, the patient and or caregiver will not be informed at that time and a follow up appointment will be offered.

If the patient has been referred by a primary care provider, a disposition of status will be returned to the primary care provider who sent the referral.

Fortis Behavioral Health is a private clinic and does not provide crisis level services or community health services and retains the right to choose its patients.
